

One Partner | One Bill | One Solution

Capabilities Overview

Proxios offers an alternative approach for your office technology needs. We provide web based access to your corporate applications, phone system, email and faxing. Rather than owning and operating in-house systems, you buy technology as a service and pay monthly for actual usage. We own the equipment, provide the software and manage the services, as well as provide 24 x 7 user support. This approach allows you to focus on building your business and avoid the distractions, risks and unpredictable expenses associated with traditional, in-house systems.

Services

Virtual Desktop Package

- Web based access to your corporate desktop with standard and industry specific applications, data, emails and faxes.

Integrated Communications Package

- Fully integrated, business class IP phone service, Exchange email, desktop faxing and Blackberry/Smartphone service.

Business Continuity Services

- Data center disaster protection for your mission critical systems without building duplicate networks.

Data Communications Services

- Volume pricing with major carriers for internet, SIP, private T1 and MPLS networks, QoS and bandwidth management.

How it Works

From any location with internet access you log in to your Virtual Desktop. The Virtual desktop looks and works exactly the same as the corporate desktop you use today. The difference is instead of vulnerable PC's and servers in your office which leave islands of data scattered throughout the company, the Virtual Desktop networks all users on high availability servers and keeps data secure inside a carrier grade data center with redundant power and communications. Using industry best practices, we operate a sophisticated infrastructure built with the same technologies used by Fortune 100 corporations.

Our Company

Since our launch in 1999, the goal of Proxios has always been to deliver turn key solutions and responsive support for a predictable price. Our capabilities have evolved to reflect our customer's needs and the growth of technology in the workplace. Our services provide remote access but we build our relationships face to face. Rather than 800 numbers, web chat and emails we do business face to face, learning everything we can about your business, your market, and your needs, to develop an affinity: a partnership that goes beyond technology.
